WASHINGTON .. THURSDAY January 16, 1902.

(ROSBY S. NOYES..........Editor.

THE EVENING STAR has a regular and permanent Family Circulation much more than the combined circulation of the other Washington dailies. As a News and Advertising Medium it has no competitor.

Din order to avoid delays on account of personal absence, letters to THE STAR should not be addressed to any individual connected with the fice, but simply to THE STAR, or to the Editorial or Business Departments, according to tenor or purpose.

The Hoar Resolution.

Mr. Hoar, as appears from his speech explaining his Philippine resolution, has in mind the reopening of the whole Philippine ning, and investigate every charge that has been lodged against his countrymen in Dewey began preparations at Hong Kong to "capture or destroy the Spanish fleet." He seems to be convinced himself that his countrymen are not only in the wrong but wickedly in the wrong, and he desires a record made up which will fix that view of the matter firmly in history.

There are two wings of the anti-imperialist contingent. One is led by Mr. Hoar, and, as just stated, it represents the proposition that the Filipinos have the right of the contention. Aguinaldo-busy at the time taking messages by wireless telegraphy from Liberty-was tricked by Dewey and others, and, driven by a sense of wrongs received, took the field against perfidious allies in the name of outraged honor. other contingent would deal with the probem as an error on the part of Mr. McKinlev and his advisers. The administration acted unwisely in taking over the archipelago from Spain. It should have ordered the fleet home as soon as hostilities were suspended with peace in view. This contingent asks only that we withdraw as soon as possible, and leave the Filipinos to "work out their own destiny," whatever that may mean. It seeks to fix the stigma of dishonor upon no American commander affoat or ashore in all of that difficult busi-

The investigation, if ordered, will fail of its purpose. Now that the heat of the original controversy has in so many quarters egoled it is impossible for even his most enthusiastic American admirers to in-Washington. That Asiatic mountebank stands pretty accurately measured today. A shrewd and an unscrupulous schemer: laying wires at one time for an uprising which would place the knife of the assassin at the throat of every American in Manila, and at another time planning and executing the assassination of one of his principal lieutenants whom he suspected of disloyalty, he has wound up in jail, and, according to all accounts, is a contented of the spirit of George Washington in that fellow it escapes the average American appreciation. Still, if the Senate is disposed to indulge Mr. Hoar there is enough humor in the country to follow with some interest the effort to crown an oriental adventurer with a wreath of glory.

The Hall of Records.

A strong argument in favor of the prompt forts to secure provision for a hall of records for the government. The Senate Tuesday adopted a resolution providing for the organization of a joint congressional committee to choose a plat of ground for triangle, and a square of ground within that area has now been proposed for the But according to reports the treasury officials are opposed to taking it the Corcoran Art Gallery. It is to be hoped that the joint committee will be guided in further chance selections, out of harmony with the general scheme of building locais too small then appears the force of the ing sites without reference to the quadground with suitable approaches. The and the modern market. Any departure from this plan, at the very outset of the shod capital making of the past has produced, would be discouraging in the extreme to those who hope to see Washington advance steadily from this time forward until it becomes noted the world over for the symmetry and the artistic harmony of the arrangement of the government's build-

The balance on the wrong side of the ledger of the late Buffalo Pan-American exposition is now definitely stated to be $3,326,114.69. The causes of this deficiency are generally conceded to be partly because the show was not opened for a long time after the date announced for it, but more ed in the job printing offices of Buffalo. instead of in the newspapers of the country. The managers of the St. Louis enterprise will do well to make a note of these two points if they wish to avoid a similar re-

The Negro as a Skilled Laborer.

The communication from A. Davis, jr., of Jacksonville, Fla., which appeared in story it is worthy of reproduction with a man who gives patent medicine indorse word of comment. After expressing approval of some sentiments of The Star on the subject of the exhibit of the negroes at the Charleston exposition, Mr. Davis gives the following information as to what part negro labor has played in the rebuild-

"I have never seen the statement in print, but nevertheless it is a fact, that fully 80 per cent of all the mechanical work and labor in the rebuilding of Jacksonville has been done by negro labor, and an active experience of twenty-five years in the and statement that it has been well done. The manual training schools throughout the south have been and are turning out great the great fire here entailed a loss of over ,000 to the property owners, many of even though I have been a lifelong demo-crat. courage these people to better their conditions and to assist them in their honest and earnest efforts to become useful citi-

Mr. Davis has performed a worthy service in contributing this information to the public. It is deserving of the public's attention. It is an assurance as to the fucares for the well being of the country should be gratified to receive. It shows extraordinary progress for a people who have their servitude was abolished, and it more elsewhere for the negro's skilled labor. We have probably, by many thousands, more competent artisans in this country than we have been reckoning with. The negro has, almost unnoticed, been qualifying himself for duties far superior to those he once performed. Mr. Davis speaks of "the manual training schools throughout the south." There are many people who look on Booker Washington's school as the only one of the kind down there. And some are of opinion that that institution is still in experimental stages. Tuskegee is the best known of all, and is firmly on its pins, but there are a number of such industrial schools for negroes and the reports from all are of a encouraging character. Booker Washington's example is being copied by many negroes of ambition and capacity, who are instructing men and women of their race in work of the better grades. The sentiment with which Mr. Davis closes his communication is highly creditable to him as a man and citizen, and it is the sentiment which in the end will prevail in this country. As the negro acquires skill as a laborer, and shows pride in what he turns out and loyalty to his obligations, he will secure a footing in the walks of life from which mere prejudice cannot dislodge him. His home is here, his heart is here, his labor is needed, and the color of his skin is no excuse whatever for oppressing him or driving him away. The best men in the south wish him well in his efforts to rise in the scale of usefulness.

Reciprocity.

Francis B. Thurber, president of the United States Export Association, and a prominent New York merchant, in a statement submitted yesterday to the ways and means committee advocating reciprocity with Cuba, said: "I am a republican and a protectionist, but there is reason in all things; and I believe that there should be a power above unreasoning protectionists to say what is "The permanency of a protective tariff will largely depend on this, and I contend that it is shortsighted on the part of our protected industries not to recognize changed conditions, and that unless they swell of public opinion which will go to exto all of our industries. This was the view of William McKinley, who could not be considered an enemy to American industries. It is especially shortsighted on the part of our domestic sugar growers not to be willing to make liberal concessions at the present time in the tariff on Cuban

The Star, on more than one occasion since Mr. McKinley spoke at Buffalo, has sounded this same warning. It is worthy of the attention of the republicans in Congress. They are responsible for legislation, and Mr. Roosevelt in his annual message has fortified with expressions of his own the sentiments delivered by his predecessor in that last memorable address. Reciprocity is both feasible and advisable. It is a sound business proposition, capable of being worked out on lines of safety and profit to American industries, and, what is more, the extraordinary volume of our If it is not done; if matters are postponed de habit, it war li'ble to make me trouble. and disaster from unsold products results. the republicans will be held to account. and will pay the penalty at the polls.

As respects Cuba and sugar, the Louislana democrats are working in harmony with those republicans of uncompromising protection leanings. The alliance is neither new nor startling. But it would be well considered assured for several years that for the republicans to face the whole situawhen this building was at last erected it tion frankly. These democrats have no other interests in view but those of sugar. and suggest in its place a square west of the people for refusing to liberalize American trade with foreign countries. Sunday Openings. The extent to which the public enjoys the opening of art gaileries, etc., on Sundays is shown in a measure by the statistics of the Corcoran Gallery for the year just closed. The whole number of its visitors during the year was 137,222. Of these 10,053 were pay visitors, and 6,800 were guests at evening receptions, etc. On the three free days of each week there were 75,068 visitors, and on Sundays there were 45,301. In other words, the average Sunday obvious moral is that Sunday openings accommodate a large percentage of population who in all probability would not otherwise be able to visit the gallery at all. And what is true of Washington in this respect would no doubt be true of other large cities as well.

Electricity in Tunnels. The decision of the New York Central Railroad Company to adopt electric traction for the terminal tunnel in New York city, together with the construction of a great loop to accommodate the suburban traffic without dead-ends of track, has undoubtedly been hastened by the recent tunnel disaster, followed by a sharp public agitation of possible remedies. The com-pany's announcement is to the effect that this general project was agreed upon some months ago, but that certain real estate

This action in New York directs attention more pointedly to the advisability of making some such provision for the Washington underground terminals under the new arrangement of the tracks. A smokeless tunnel is clearly more safe than one filled with gas and steam and smoke. There will e time before the new southern-connection subway is built for the managers of the lines entering Washington to observe the working out of the New York Central's plans, to ascertain the extent to which the use of electric power will lessen the tunnel dangers and add to the comfort of passen-
